The Klallam Language program is a fundamental part of the Elwha Tribe’s rich culture and history. During March, students spent two weeks cleaning and weeding the šáwiʔawtxʷ - Growing Place greenhouse. First through sixth grade students from the Culture After School Program helped with the immense task of pulling weeds while learning Klallam words and phrases used to instruct the gardening class. After two weeks of cleaning the garden bed, we followed with seed starting. Soon we will see the seeds sprouting and producing fresh vegetables for our Tribal members.

Challenge: Pull out your Klallam Dictionary. If you can translate these words and phrases, redeem your prize in person at the Klallam Language department office.

Letter to the Community

Dear Lower Elwha Tribal Community,

Just wanted to let you know that I am writing this letter mid-March. Due to an illness I missed submission of my community letter last month. I am much better now but have a ways to go to get back to normal. It feels good to be back to work.

I wanted to take time to thank my nephew Joe Luce for providing firewood to our elders. He has a friend that donates and delivers a semi load of log wood to the reservation at Joe’s house. The Tribe provides this gentleman with a tax exemption for providing the wood. But that is not why he does it. He does it out the kindness of his heart. He didn’t even ask for the exemption. Joe, his son Sam, Gary Johnson and Greg Williams took their own time to cut, split and deliver wood to our elders. The Tribe supplies only fuel to help out with this community service these guys perform. I for one really appreciate Joe stepping up to help out. I don’t know how it got started but apparently he knows this guy who donates wood so that Joe can distribute it. I know others have helped out but I don’t know who else has participated. Sorry if I didn’t get your name out here.

The Tribe discontinued delivery of firewood to our elders due to a number of issues. We relied on wood that we could get cheap, donated or left over from various stream restorations. That hasn’t happened for a while now. Plus the cost of wood, wages and liability make it prohibitive. We are still looking for ways to make it happen.

I know the community has noticed that we haven’t been having General Community Council meetings lately. Believe me, I have noticed also. It is due to the number of deaths we have had in our community. It is out of the respect for the grieving families. The Tribe has done this historically since I can remember. Maybe it’s time to reconsider this non constitutional tradition? The Tribe shut down all operations when my mother LaVerne Ulmer Hepfer passed away in 1991. Personally, my heart felt real good when I was told of this. I thought, “Man, My mom is so important that they shut the Tribe down.” It felt like an honor that I will never forget. This is the reason that I want to honor grieving families. It is not that we as the Council are lazy or want to hide something. I am as transparent as a glass window.

Our constitution says that the General Community Council shall meet the first Monday of each month or on the succeeding Monday, if the first Monday is a holiday. This is for the General Community Council. In 1972, the Tribe acted and voted upon a resolution that states, “That the Lower Elwha Community Council has resolved to delegate the authority of Community Council to the Business Committee.” This was because we couldn’t get a quorum to hold a meeting. The same holds true today. Having said all that, I will advocate that we figure out some other way to honor grieving families and hold regular scheduled meetings. If the community really wants to get involved, the true answer to this is to have a Constitutional Amendment. This requires a vote from each of you.

If you have other thoughts and ideas, please contact me either at my office, cell phone number 360-477-1922 or stop me when I am out and about. I will take the time to talk with you.

Russell N. (RAZZ) Hepfer
The table on this page shows the expenditures that the Lower Elwha Klallam Tribe has authorized for the years 2015, 2016, 2017, and 2018 as of March 21. We are still in the middle of 2018, so the totals do not reflect the full year’s spending. The numbers show the unmet needs that are NOT covered by State and Federal funding. Tribal dollars cover Elders program, Canoe Journeys, community parties, youth activities and fair tickets.

Medicaid reimbursements and Medical & Funeral expenses are NOT covered by Federal and State funds, so are also paid with tribal dollars. This includes gas money, per diem, meals and hotel stays for tribal membership that need health care out of the area.

Letter to the Community

Dear Lower Elwha Community Members,

I have been serving the community as your Council Member for almost three years and it’s astounding how fast the time went by.

So much has happened within this time, from infrastructure being built, tribal programs evolving, environmental conservation growing, and overall a steady influx in economic growth.

We witnessed our Elwha Food & Fuel Station come into existence, watched our Justice Center remodel, saw our Billy Whiteshoes Memorial Park come to life, watched our new Klallam Counseling Services building being built and also witnessed the creation of our new Natural Resources building. We have been so busy and so blessed to watch our community grow stronger.

One of my passions has been supporting our youth and ensuring their success. Our Elwha Strong Youth Coalition plays an important role in keeping our youth engaged and uplifted with our community. Our education department ties in with our youth by providing language and cultural experiences. We are looking forward to watching our new Head Start and Child Care center come into existence this year.

As you can see, we are growing and expanding. These are certainly exciting times!

I want to say thank you for trusting me over the last three years. It’s been an honor serving my community and I hope to keep going, with your blessing.

Your Council Member,

Steve Robideau

CEO Update

I’ve seen a fair amount of chatter on various Facebook pages and in other venues recently regarding the “rights” tribal members have to jobs and employment opportunities with the Tribe. I’ve taken a look at a number of programs and policies that the Tribe has, and while I know this will upset a few of you, I find some understanding needs to be provided.

First, I am a strong defender of tribal rights, regardless of the Tribal affiliation. I view those historic treaties as living documents that hold truth and power, even today. In those treaties, we have protected certain rights, or accepted them as partial payment for the lands taken. So most of us who are members of a federally recognized Tribe have a right to health care, we have a right to an education. It is irrelevant that the resources provided by the US Government fall short of the need, the right remains.

Here in the NW, most of the Tribes also have a right to fish and harvest in usual ancestral areas. We also have a right to elect our own leadership. Your opportunity to exercise that right is coming up soon. Nominations for council position(s) is April 2. Your election committee, who oversees and ensures a fair election, needs help. If you can’t run for office, help with the elections. If you don’t exercise your rights someone will suggest you don’t value them or need them, so I urge you to use your full slate of rights and the responsibilities that go with them, and make a difference today.

The K’weynsen

The class has been working on a building study. We engaged in many building projects and science projects, building on our observation skills. We have also worked on building better friendships within our classroom. We really enjoyed celebrating Dr. Seuss’ birthday this past month by building Truffula Trees and learning about the Lorax. We are moving into a clothing study and are looking forward to a special project that includes students bringing in pieces of fabric that have a meaning to them or their families. We will use this fabric to make a memory necklace and learn to tell a story about them.

Bears’ Bulletin (sčqʷáy̓əč)

Ravens’ Rave (sk’ʷtúʔ?)

Happy Spring from the Raven’s Class. We are just ending our study on dinosaurs and are transitioning into a building study. It should be lots of fun learning about buildings and what they are made of and how we can build things. If any parents would like to donate any building supplies or come into class and talk about building things we would love to have you in. The weather is getting nicer by the day but still can be chilly. Please send coats and warm clothes as we try and go outside every day.

Copies of the Head Start Annual Report are available upon request (please ask at the Head Start).

The Butterfly Prenatal Program is always accepting applications. It is a wonderful opportunity to learn and earn “baby bucks” as you go. Baby bucks can be used to ‘buy’ new items for your baby. We also go over fetal development, milestones, as well as learn some practical skills like budgeting. AED’s Available!

To the left is a photo of Sarah Moore, Resident Services @ Elwha Housing Authority, accepting the Housing Department’s new automatic external defibrillator (AED). They are very simple to operate and are designed to be used by someone with no training whatsoever.

Each AED comes with a CD that provides a 20 minute primer on how to use the device. Should anyone have any questions, and would want or need more training please contact me.

Thanks to the Tribal Council for funding these very important life saving devices. Finance, Social Services and the Heritage Center also now have theirs as well.

Hopefully by the end of this week, the remaining devices will be in place, including in each LEKT patrol vehicle.

Spring at the Heritage Center

So far 2018 has found your Heritage Center staff hard at work in ventures of education and community engagement.

On March 6th we hosted a Preview Night for the newly revitalized Carnegie Library. Over 200 guests were welcomed by the Drum Group, with speeches by Chairwoman Frances Charles and former Clallam County Commissioner Mike Doherty. Attendees were also treated to fry bread from Melissa Gilman, and an information fair featuring many tribal employees available for Q&A about their respective specialties. The Carnegie Museum features the číx‘am village artifacts and Elwha River Dam exhibit previously on display at the Heritage Center, as well as a new exhibit speaking to the tribe’s past, present and future. We are determining the building’s regular open hours now, and hope to have an official opening date for you in the month of April.

For Christmas last year, we invested in a 12 ft. tall Christmas tree of grand proportions. Instead of taking it down at the end of the season, we decided to keep spreading the joy throughout the year, and will be hosting a new holiday themed charity drive each month!

For Valentine’s Day during the month of February we accepted donations of stuffed animals to benefit children in crisis. These animals were given to first responders, including our own Elwha Police Department, so that children encountered in emergent situations could be given a toy to hug for comfort. The ICW program and Serenity House shelters also benefitted from this drive. The turnout was outstanding, with a total of 184 toys donated by the community. The month of March plays host to our St. Patrick’s Day themed food drive, and look forward to a Spring/Easter themed drive to benefit the Port Angeles Pet Posse and Humane Society in April.

Tribal Vocational Rehabilitation Program  Chemical Dependency/Substance Abuse

Chemical dependency and substance abuse are actually two similar, but different titles to conditions that identify addiction situations. Chemical dependency is recognized when someone stops using a substance of any kind and then starts experiencing withdrawal symptoms. These could be actual physical symptoms that include pain and nausea. It could also affect your thinking process, making it very difficult to concentrate.

Substance abuse could be making choices to use substances that can affect daily life choices. Or using a substance that makes you forget to do everyday tasks that keep your family functioning in a healthy positive direction. It could also cause you to sleep long to recover. Some people in this category are called functioning alcoholics/addicts.

In either case, steps can be taken to treat these conditions. It could take detoxification or maybe just counseling. While a person is in treatment for this, it is called recovery. Some individuals may need help finding work while they are in recovery. Tribal vocational rehabilitation programs consider chemical dependency/substance abuse, a disability. Because of this, they are eligible for our Tribal Vocational Rehabilitation program.

Elwha Clinic Diabetic Health News

Diabetic Quarterly

On Tuesday, March 13th, the Lower Elwha Health Clinic had a total of 22 patients participate in the Diabetic Quarterly Exam day! There were prizes, food, and stations in the lobby run by Contract Health Services, Nutrition, Stress Reduction, and Acupuncture! Each patient got their diabetic quarterly exams completed by their Provider, Mental health, and Dental within their 1 hour time slot. There was a $25 Walmart gift card drawing each hour and the three grand prize drawings were a crock pot, magic bullet and a $40 Walmart gift card! Thank you to all who attended and we hope to see you at our next quarterly exam day!

Tip of the Month: How to Eat Healthy and Save Money:

1. Check your fridge, pantry, and freezer for food that you already have and create a recipe out of it. Only shop for the food items that you need to complete the recipe.

2. Plan out your meals and all of your snacks for the entire week. Have the food items you need written down before you go grocery shopping and stick to those items when you are at the store. (Don’t shop on an empty stomach! Make sure you eat prior to grocery shopping).

3. Find a local grocery store that may have some deals, sales, or coupons for foods that can be expensive such as meats or seafood.

4. Compare the different brands and sizes of food products to see which ones have a lower unit price.

5. Shop for fresh fruits and vegetables that are in season. When they are in season they are less expensive. If they are not in season you can purchase them cheaper if frozen or canned.

6. Only buy what you need. If you buy too much of a food that can spoil before you eat it, you end up wasting food which means wasting money.

7. Only cook the amount of food that you need. If you overcook and don’t eat everything make sure to use leftovers for another meal or store in your freezer to eat later.

8. Buy foods in bulk. You can use what you need and store the rest in the freezer for later use.

Brandy Swan (KCS Program Assistant)- Brandy always rises to any occasion. She is a great example of an employee who can roll with changes, and adapt while remaining upbeat and on top of her game. Brandy has proven what a valuable asset she is to not just KCS, but the whole Health Department in general.

Idalis Larson (MH Program Assistant)- Idalis has stepped up to the plate without any objections when we have faced barriers within our departments. Idalis is quick to respond, likes to help find answers, and knows her department inside out. She has been a star team player and a role model for others. No one can juggle schedules and errands like Idalis!

Ellen Charles (MA/CHR) not pictured- Ellen is willing to go out of her way to make sure our community members and patients are taken care of. She stepped in to take care of responsibilities when it was needed. We are grateful that Ellen is willing to do what it takes to make sure patients get their needs met.

Attention Lower Elwha Health Department Patients:

The various Health Programs/Departments are conducting Patients Satisfaction Surveys. This is important information to gather since our patient population is who we have committed to serve and we want to do our different jobs well. Since we have a pretty big Health Department, we rely on our patients to tell us how we are doing. We like to hear it all. Good or bad!

Please fill out a Patient Satisfaction Survey the next time you are at an appointment or just stopping by. We appreciate your input and value what you have to say.

Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Program

WIC is the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants & Children
The WIC Food & Nutrition Program helps you give your Child a healthy start for life with:
- Approximately $50 in health foods each month per participant:
  ⇒ Information on your child’s growth and nutrition
  ⇒ Resources, support, and referrals for breastfeeding, including electric breast pumps
  ⇒ Community information & referrals, individualized for your family
  ⇒ Referrals for family support and other area services

WIC approved foods include: Milk (lactose-free & soy available), Eggs, Cereal, Cheese, Dried or Canned Beans/Peanut Butter, Juice, Whole Grain Choices, Fresh Fruits/Veggies, Tuna/Salmon, and Baby Foods. Breastfeeding women receive the largest food package! Babies 6 months & older receive fruits, veggies, meats and cereal. By providing mom’s food package in addition to baby foods, WIC provides for nearly all the food a breastfeed baby will need in the first year.

_Babies receiving formula from WIC received 1/2 the fruits and veggies & no meat, WIC provides just over half of the formula the typical baby will need._

WIC Staff can determine if you qualify for WIC over the phone. Call the Clinic @ 360-452-6252, and ask for Birdie @ Ext. 7631 or Marissa @ Ext 7625.

In March, the ICW department took a group of children to a ropes challenge coarse at Camp Seymour in Gig Harbor. The children worked on team building, interpersonal and leadership skills through various ropes courses and had a blast zip lining!

10 Ways to Reduce Allergy Symptoms, Naturally!

1. Clean up your diet:
- Try to “eat a rainbow” of fruits and vegetables every day. You can also try to make sure at least half your plate is vegetables (not including starchy vegetables like potatoes and corn).
- Eat Omega-3 rich foods, like salmon and other yummy seafood.

2. Eat foods that are rich in Quercetin.
- Quercetin is a “natural anti-histamine” which means that it reduces histamine, the substance that causes a lot of the allergy symptoms like runny nose and itchy eyes.
- Quercetin is found in many foods such as: raw onions, apples, red grapes, kale, spinach, capers, watercress, cherries, green and black tea leaves, bee pollen and chili peppers.

3. Avoid foods that are rich in histamines or that cause histamine release.
- Unfortunately these include chocolate, wine and strawberries. Other foods are: avocados, bananas, dairy, eggs, oranges, peaches and pineapples.
- Fermented foods can also potentially cause increased histamine release and may need to be avoided during high allergy season.
- Artificial flavors, colors and preservatives can increase histamine release. Yet another reason to avoid these foods and eat more whole, unprocessed foods.

4. Avoid foods that may cross-react with pollens. This is known as Oral Allergy Syndrome — you know that itchy mouth you get after eating cantaloupe — it could be due to your ragweed allergy! Some examples of this are:
- Ragweed Pollen — bananas, zucchini, cantaloupe, sunflower seeds, cucumber.
- Grass Pollen — melons, oranges, swiss chard, tomatoes, watermelon, wheat.
- Alder Pollen — almonds, apples, cherries, celery, hazelnuts, parsley, peaches, pears.
- Birch — apples, plums, carrots, cherries, fennel, walnuts, pears, potatoes, peaches, wheat.

5. Avoid dairy products!
- Dairy can thicken mucus secretions, and trigger histamine release. Yuck!

6. Eat local honey!
- Local honey contains pollens from all the local plants, flowers, trees and grasses that you are allergic to. Small frequent doses can “desensitize” you if taken before allergy season starts, similar to the concept of allergy shots.
- Take 1-2 teaspoons daily for several months before pollen season begins.

7. Take natural allergy supplements that contain quercetin.
- Quercetin reduces histamine release from cells when exposed to an allergen, so it works better as a preventive.
- Products that also contain vitamin C help to activate the quercetin. Bromelain is an enzyme found in pineapples that has anti-inflammatory properties and can help thin mucus. Stinging nettles is another anti-inflammatory herb that blocks histamine production.

8. Use homeopathic medicines to provide relief from annoying allergy symptoms.
- One of the Naturopathic Doctors at the clinic are happy to help pick out a specific remedy for you based on your symptoms. No side effects, no drug interactions safe for infants and pregnant/breastfeeding women.

9. Acupuncture for both prevention and treatment of allergies. Acupressure can be used at home along with various essential oils that can help keep allergy symptoms at bay.
- Acupressure uses your gentle, loving, yet firm massage on specific acupuncture points to stimulate healing.
- Points that can be massaged specifically for allergy include:
  "Large Intestine 4" — located in the webbing between the thumb and index finger
  "Liver 3" — located in the webbing between the big toe and second toe
- Take a look at www.wikihow.com/Do-Acupressure to see exactly where these points are located.

10. Use essential oils.
- Essential oils can be diffused or massaged into specific acupressure points. Some essential oils that are particularly helpful for allergies are chamomile, eucalyptus, lemon, lavender, and peppermint.

- When using essential oils for acupressure, you can add 5 drops of essential oil to a tablespoon of "carrier" oil like olive oil or jojoba oil, and use this to massage into the specific acupressure points mentioned above.

Be sure to buy essential oils from a reputable manufacturer to ensure that they have the intended therapeutic qualities. Some favorites are DoTerra, Vibrant Blue Oils, and Young Living.

Please speak with one of the naturopathic doctors at the clinic about options that you may not have tried to treat your allergies.

Spring is upon us and it is time to get outdoors!
